

LAST WORD IS RECEIVED IN GERMANY

AMBASSADOR DELIVERS UNITED STATES NOTE TO BERLIN FOREIGN OFFICE TODAY.

TEXT PUBLIC SATURDAY

Next Diplomatic Move of This Nation Now Rests Upon Attitude That Berlin Government Will Assume

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, July 23.—The new American note to Germany reached here during the night and was delivered to the foreign office by Ambassador Gerard at 7:12 o'clock this afternoon.

Washington, July 23.—With the delivery today by Ambassador Gerard to the foreign office at Berlin of the American note warning Germany that the loss of the American lives through German violation of neutral rights cannot be regarded as "unfriendly," the United States rests its case for the present at least. The note will be given out here late today for publication tomorrow morning.

Officials of the Washington government turned expectantly toward Berlin for some indication from official quarters there as to the reception of the communication. Until such information is at hand, the next diplomatic move of the United States will not be decided upon.

Note Is Final Word.
The note is declared to be the final word of the United States government with regard to further transgressions of its rights. Should a similar disaster as that to the Lusitania occur, it is believed President Wilson would call congress together to consider a course of action.

James W. Gerard.

If the note meets with a friendly reception and there appears no intention on the part of Germany further to violate the rights of the high seas, the president will shortly take up the situation which has arisen with Great Britain over interference with American commerce by the allies.

A note virtually is ready now to protest against deviation of international law of the operations with the neutrals in council against commerce with Germany.

Orduña Case Comes Next.

The United States will make inquiries of Germany regarding the submarine attack on the Cunard liner Orduña at a time when she was bringing a score of Americans ashore. A report of an investigation conducted by Customs agent Malone at New York presented today to state department, embracing affidavits of officers, crew and passengers of the liner, contains the sworn statement of at least one American passenger that the ship was attacked without warning. All officials refused to discuss the report of its contents, but it was understood that state department officials did not feel they could address inquiries to Germany on the statements made by British passengers alone.

CHAOSS STILL REIGNS THROUGHOUT MEXICO

Red Cross Society Has Virtually Abandoned Its Relief Campaign—Conditions Growing Worse.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, July 23.—The Mexican situation again came to the forethought today with a conference between President Wilson and officials of the American Red Cross, who have virtually abandoned their campaign for the relief of noncombatants in the southern portion of the country. The new note to Germany caused officials to turn their attention to Mexican affairs, although no decisive move in that direction is contemplated at present.

Mexico City remains cut off from communication with the outside world and military operations in the surrounding territories are broken in a mystery. No special effort is being made by the United States to re-establish communications because fighting makes it impossible.

Both Villa and Carranza agencies here are without advices and their armies are to be engaged somewhere near Pachuca, forty miles northeast of the capital. The Carranza troops, who left Mexico City to meet the southward bound Villa column, ran upon a Turkish mine and sunk.

Available shipping records contain several vessels of the name Theresa, but none of British nationality.

Steamers Released.

London, July 19.—The Danish steamer Florida, from Baltimore, and Norwegian steamer Skogland, from New York, has been released by the British authorities. The Danish steamship Louisiana, from Boston, has been detained at Kirkwall.

Submarine Missing.

Berlin, July 23.—The Overseas News Agency gave out the following dispatch from Geneva:

"The French submarine Joule has been missing since April 23 and is considered lost."

The convention also calls on the people of Wisconsin to rally to the support of the state government, of which it is claimed is threatened by the revolutionary interests of the state. A second and fair trial for John R. Lawson, Colorado labor leader, is also demanded.

U. S. Wireless Station At Sayville

Interior of Sayville wireless station and Capt. William H. G. Ballard.

Following reports of the violation of the neutrality of the United States by the sending of military messages to Germany, the navy department has taken over the station and put Capt. William H. G. Ballard in charge.

Captain Ballard, head of the navy radio service, has been in charge of the most far-reaching wireless station in the world, that of the navy located at Arlington, Va.

RECOUNTS EXPLOITS OF FRENCH FORCES IN PENINSULAR WAR

Seven Lines of Turk Trenches Captured in Brilliant Assault During June Fighting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, July 23.—Exploits of the French expeditionary force on the Gallipoli peninsula, June 21 and 30 in the region of Keraves Dere are recounted in an official statement issued tonight regarding the operations of the Dardanelles.

Four trenches, finding steps on a slope between the sea and a ravine opening from the villages, were chosen as the objective for an attack on the 21st. The west wind covered the field of battle with clouds of dust, swept up by the artillery preparations.

Suddenly about 11 o'clock the clash of bayonets was heard as the infantry leaped to the assault. One after another, the trenches fell before the impetuous charge of French troops which carried them almost to the attack as intent. An entire Turkish company surrendered in the first trench, surrounded without resistance.

"Counter attacks the following night," says the official report, "failed to budge the victorious forces. The French left completed on June 30 that advantage gained on the 21st by capturing a group of communication trenches called the Quadrilateral, the head of Kereves Dere ravine. Seven lines were taken in the assault, certain colonial troops carried away by enthusiasm, pursuing the enemy beyond the objective fixed.

These colonials were almost surrounded but were able to regain the quadrilateral. We remain in undivided possession of these trenches after the enemy had made one unsuccessful attempt on them. It was there that General Gouraud was wounded.

The legislature adjourned until Monday night.

FIRE INSURANCE LAW REPEALED AND FUND FOR HIGHWAYS CUT

Legislature Repeals State Fire Insurance Fund Law and Enrosses Bill Appropriating $800,000 Instead of $1,200,000 for Highways.

Madison, July 23.—The repeal of the state fire insurance fund law and the engrossing of a bill appropriating $800,000 annually instead of $1,200,000 previously allowed for highway construction, which has been allowed for highway construction of the assembly today.

The bill for a legislative investigation of the Wisconsin taxing system by a committee of two senators and three assemblymen was introduced today by Senator Bray.

Assemblyman Frank J. Weber's attack on the Wisconsin legislature as being opposed to the interest of all, made before the state Federation of Labor at Superior, brought a storm of protest from Senator Baxton of Superior. He denounced the criticism as "vicious, unfounded, and unfair."

Mr. Weber's special colleague, Senator Arnold, defended Mr. Weber. Senator Ackley introduced substitute bills reducing appropriations recommended for dairy and food commission, border line commission, civil service commission, and Wisconsin National Guard.

George E. Harris of Waukesha was appointed by Governor Philipp today as a member of the state board of control to succeed John E. Lewis of Friendship for the term ending April 1, 1920. His appointment, James Nevin, Madison, superintendent of the state fire commission, Governor E. E. Barber, a La Crosse business man, and Frank D. Moody, Madison, former assistant state forester, as members of the new state conservation commission were filed with the senate today by Governor Philipp. They will probably appear on Tuesday's calendar for confirmation.

The legislature adjourned until Monday night.

AMERICAN BARK IS SEIZED BY GERMANS

Vessel Is a Three-Masted Clipper Owned By Victoria Shipping Company, British Columbia.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, via London, July 23.—The American bark Dunrise, New York for Stockholm, has been seized by the Germans and taken into Swinemund.

The only boat of this name mentioned in available shipping records is a three-masted clipper owned by the Victoria Shipping company, Limited, Victoria, B. C. This bark sailed from San Francisco April 17 for Balao, where she arrived May 8, sailing for Helsingborg, Sweden, arriving July 11.

Steamer Sunk.

Berlin, July 23.—Wireless to Sayville—a dispatch from the Hague to the Overseas News Agency says that according to reports from Cairo the British steamship Theresa while passing through the Suez Canal, ran upon a Turkish mine and sunk.

Available shipping records contain several vessels of the name Theresa, but none of British nationality.

BILL WILL PROVIDE FOR STATE COUNCIL

FINANCE COMMITTEE PROPOSES BUSINESS-LIKE SUPERVISION OF STATE AFFAIRS.

REPORT ON FINANCES

Authorizes Publication of Summary of State's Financial Condition Showing Appropriations and Tax Levies.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., July 23.—The joint committee on finance has recommended a substitute to Bill No. 575 S. This bill provides for a state council charged with the responsibility of bringing about coordination and cooperation in the work of state officers, departments, boards and commissions. The council is to consist of the governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general, superintendents of public instruction, commissioners of insurance, chairman of the tax commission, of the railroad commission, of the conservation commission, the dairy and food commissioner, secretary of health and president of the board of control. Meetings must be held monthly or often.

The idea is to give to the business of the state the same supervision that would be given by the board of directors of a private corporation. This board is authorized to enforce cooperation in the inspection work carried on by the various departments and commissions of state. Through this organization the duplication of inspection work, which is particularly aimed at by the administration, can be corrected.

The council is specifically required to investigate the methods used in purchasing materials and supplies for the state, to bring about the adoption of the best methods in all state purchasing.

The committee's substitute bill also provides that the subcommittee of the joint finance committee shall, at the close of the session of the legislature, publish a summary financial report including all appropriations made by the legislature and the required tax levies to run for two years. This provision is intended to give the members of the legislature and to the public at large a financial report of the provision made by the legislature for carrying on the state government during the next two years.

The subcommittee is also directed to gather information and prepare a budget for the next session of the legislature. It must investigate the needs of all state departments and institutions and report its findings and recommendations to the next legislature.

This will do in advance for the finance committee a large amount of work which now must be done after the session opens. Another great advantage will be that the members of the subcommittee of the joint finance committee shall, at the close of the session of the legislature, publish a summary financial report including all appropriations made by the legislature and the required tax levies to run for two years. This provision is intended to give the members of the legislature and to the public at large a financial report of the provision made by the legislature for carrying on the state government during the next two years.

SNEAK THIEF GETS LOOT OF JEWELRY AT BROWNELL HOME

Believed to be Work of Mysterious Third Ward Raffles Who Has Been Inactive of Late.

The "Third Ward Raffles" is active again. Last evening or in the latter part of the afternoon at the residence of Mrs. I. C. Brownell at 442 Garfield avenue was entered, it is thought, by this mysterious, crafty and yet bungling thief and several hundred dollars worth of valuables in the form of jewelry was taken.

For a period of half a year the police have not encountered burglar in the third ward until last evening when came to the Brownell residence. Here they found a sneak thief had thoroughly ransacked the house, taken what he wished, overlooked other valuables, and had made a safe escape.

The robbery bears all the indications of the nefarious thefts of the unknown sneak thief whom the police have dubbed. The Third Ward Raffles, because his lair in the main have been confined in the past to this district. Entrance to the house was effected by the slashing of the screen door on the north side which faces an empty lot and afforded the intruder opportunity of entering the place without being seen, except by a chance pedestrian.

On ripping a slit in the screen door with a sharp knife, the thief reached through the opening, unlocked the screen door and was in the small hall which lead either to the cellar or to the first floor. The outside door was unlocked, the owners wishing to air the cellar. On the stairs leading to the main part of the house the thief encountered a locked door. This barrier was overcome by the clever use of a key pick, which he used in the keyhole and deftly turned the key, locking the door.

The rooms of the house were searched and ransacked to the satisfaction of "Mr. Raffles." Downstairs he went through the side-board drawers and slighted the plated silverware. The prized silverware of Mrs. Brownell with other valuables had been deposited in a bank's vault. In the second quarter the real "loot" was obtained and every article was minutely searched, except the room occupied by Mrs. C. L. Brewer, daughter of Mrs. Brownell. A prized watch of Mrs. Brownell, together with her wedding ring, several other rings, and pins were taken from the bureau drawer. In the book-case there was hidden jewelry in a work basket belonging to the late Mr. Brownell, which were found in the thief.

A hurried search was made in Mrs. Brewer's room and the thief even looked or did not care to take several articles of jewelry that were almost in plain sight on a bittac. One box was taken from the drawer which contained a cameo pin, several gold hair pins, heads and a fraternity ring. A small mother box containing a large amount was untouched. Valuables belonging to the two children of Mrs. Brewer, including the necklace were not touched. It was fortunate that a pearl necklace of Mrs. Brewer had been left at a hotel safe, since the family were only staying at the residence a few days expecting to leave for an outing at the lakes in the week.

After receiving the report of the police who went to the Brownell residence last evening, Chief Chamption expressed the opinion that it was the work of a local thief. Across the street from the residence is a saloon with fall crabs and trees where an expert thief could watch the place without being seen. On seeing the ladies leave at two o'clock in the afternoon it is probable he entered the house and took his time searching and left the same way he came in.

The greater part of the jewelry taken is highly prized by the losers because of its intrinsic value, being family heirlooms. Mrs. Brownell and Mrs. Brewer arrived from Columbia, Missouri on July tenth.

FEW MEASLES CASES PREVAILING IN CITY

Only Four Cases This Week—Twelve Cards Now in Use Against Sixty-three During June.

With but a scant dozen cases of measles prevailing in the city and but one case of scarlet fever, Janesville is once more experiencing a status of good health above that which prevailed throughout June. During this month the city health department were on the anxious seat consequent of a measles epidemic. A total of sixty-three cards were used.

One attack makes a person immune, mothers, in some instances, did practically everything to make their offspring sick. Dr. Buckmaster states that this opinion is highly erroneous and parents who are doing are laying their children open to death.

Other negligence came in an utter disregard for the measles signs posted on the homes, and children permitted to play about the yard and street spread the disease to others.

PERSISTENCY WINS BELoit MAN FINDS

Tries to Get Marriage License in Rockford and Fails—Then Comes at Once to Janesville.

Alfred V. Anderson of Beloit believes in persistency, especially when it comes to such an important matter as getting married. He has chosen Thursday as his marriage day and his bride, Miss Mabel Johnson of Seaton, Minn., had arrived ready for the nuptials. They had planned on a quiet wedding at Rockford and thence they traveled yesterday morning. There it developed that they were confronted by the restrictions of the Wisconsin laws, just as if they were making application in Wisconsin, all of which was not altogether clear to young Anderson. They took the next interurban car for Janesville and secured a license at the county clerk's office. The couple was disappointed to learn however, that a five days' wait is necessary before they will be allowed to take the marriage vows.

JANESVILLE MARKETS.

Local hog market is delighting itself with a grand togorroo sale and the Chicago market has slipped down considerably.

For the last two weeks the change has been taking place and from the present conditions the outlook for the future are rather dull.

Local dealers say that the poor prospects continue this year means that the large number of old hogs are to be about the only hogs for the time being.

The margin of the Chicago market was never wider than $1.75 cwt. difference between the old fat hogs and the young hogs. Old fat hogs at Janesville stand at 6c and young at 7c.

SPORTSSOX WIN TWO GAMES FROM THE YANKEES

Go Back Into Second Place By Double Victory—Cubs Laced Again.—Umpire Slugs Johnny Evers.

Chicago, July 23.—The White Sox ranked themselves together yesterday and pulled into second place by twice defeating the New York Yanks, the first game by 3 to 1 and the second by 4 to 1. Both battles were hard fought and had the Sox fielded better they would have registered shut-out games. In the first game the Yank put across one run off the Yank pitching whom Caldwell on Fournier's triple and Eddie Collins's sacrifice. In the eighth Scott tossed one over Fournier's head and Caldwell hit and scored the run. Two errors and a hit scored two runs in the ninth for the Sox. Bob Shawkey, until recently a Mackman, was the principal victim of the game.

The Yanks grabbed off a lead in the second game in the ninth when they tallied one aided by a bot by Fournier. In the sixth Murphy's scratch hit started Caldwell's downfall. Weaver forced Murphy and stole, and scored on Eddie Collins's triple. Collins scored on Fournier's single. In the ninth the Sox pushed one more when Faber's drive went for a triple and sacrifice of the last one across.

"Slick" Olson, the empire, suffered much at the hands of the Sox fans, and on giving a close decision in the third inning the police were called to defend him. Scott had no trouble in winning the opener, the five Yank hits appearing in separate rounds. Faber let the Yanks down with six hits. The Sox are only a game and a half from the top as the result of the double victory.

Evers-Quigley Bout.

Boston, Mass., July 23.—Evers, the veteran Brave captain, and Umpire Quigley staged a one round, one blow bout in the Club-Brave game yesterday, which the Chicago team dropped by the count of 4 to 3. Evers drew a pass for the third but after awarded the free ticket to second became enraged at Umpire Quigley. Evers snatched the hand of Quigley and threw it into the air for the wind to carry into Quigley's face. Evers was ordered to the club house, and before departing stepped on the um's toes with his spikes. Quigley lost his temper and struck Evers on the neck, for the ave's second baseman's well known chin, would have been too easy to miss.

The Cubs made a good start, pounding Rudolph off the slab and counting three runs up until the fourth. Pierce held the champs until the fourth, and thereafter until the sixth they scored one run an inning, knotting the count.

Ness' Batting Record.

Los Angeles, July 23.—The new world's record for hitting in consecutive games will stand, who made the new record, failed to land safely in the first game of the last fifty in which he failed to obtain at least one safe hit. Art Fromme, former Giant hurler, stopped Ness.

ALEXANDER WORLD'S BEST PITCHER NOW

Philadelphia Star Outshines Even the Mighty Johnson This Year With Consistent Record.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

"The batteries for today's game will be Alexander and Killifer for the Phillies."

Any time that one of President Tenner's umpires ejaculates these words, the spectators in the grandstand sit back in their seats and wonder, not many runs the other side will score off the great pitcher, but how many hits he will allow the opposing batters.

Best in Country.

For Alexander stands out as the greatest pitcher in the country. He stands out on this season's record, as even greater than the mighty Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators. Foxy Clark Griffith, leader of the Washington Senators, will tell you this is all wrong and that Johnson is still greater than Alexander.

But as any player or manager in the Nation's cities to tell you the greatest pitcher in the game and he'll immediately answer you by declaring that Alexander is greater than Johnson. Manager McGraw has declared for several years that Alexander is the best of them all and the great pitcher of the Phillips has certainly lived up to McGraw's statement this year.

Great Record.

Alexander to date has won sixteen games, lost three tied one and faced nine times the Philadelphia. Just three times he came within an inch of pitching his name in the Hall of Fame. Against the Cardinals on June 5, Alexander did not allow a hit until after two were out in the ninth inning. Lauren, on June 26, he faced the Robins and held them hitless until two were out in the eighth inning. Then Zack Wheat bounded a hit into short left. Like the game against the Cards, it was the only hit made off him and he has struck out 135 players so far.

Two Runs Per Game.

In Alexander's great record, he has scored five shut outs, the victims being the Braves, Cubs, Robins, Giants, and Cardinals. Alexander has pitched 100 innings. He has allowed forty-four runs, which is a little more than an average of two runs per game. The opposing team has made only 112 hits off him and he has struck out 135 players so far.

Jack Ness.

Jack Ness' wonderful work with the stick has braced the Oakland bunch up during the last few weeks. They were tottering and slipping, but could not muster up enough of the old red fire stuff to get them by. Ness, however, kept on hitting, and the more frequently he hit the harder his teammates labored to help the worthy cause along. Now the club is in line to do a lot of good for itself.

COUNTY JAIL KEEPER ALLOWS PRISONERS TO PLAY BASEBALL IN COURT YARD

Harrisburg, Pa., July 23.—Famous prison keepers have nothing on W. W. Caldwell, warden of the Dauphin county jail, when it comes to kindness. The jail abuts on the county court house, a few feet away, and Caldwell regularly lets good prisoners play ball in the yard. A few days ago a foul ball smashed through a pine window in the office of Presiding Judge George Kunke, and cost $40. But Caldwell merely had the prisoners put up a screen to guard against future accidents and called, "Play ball."

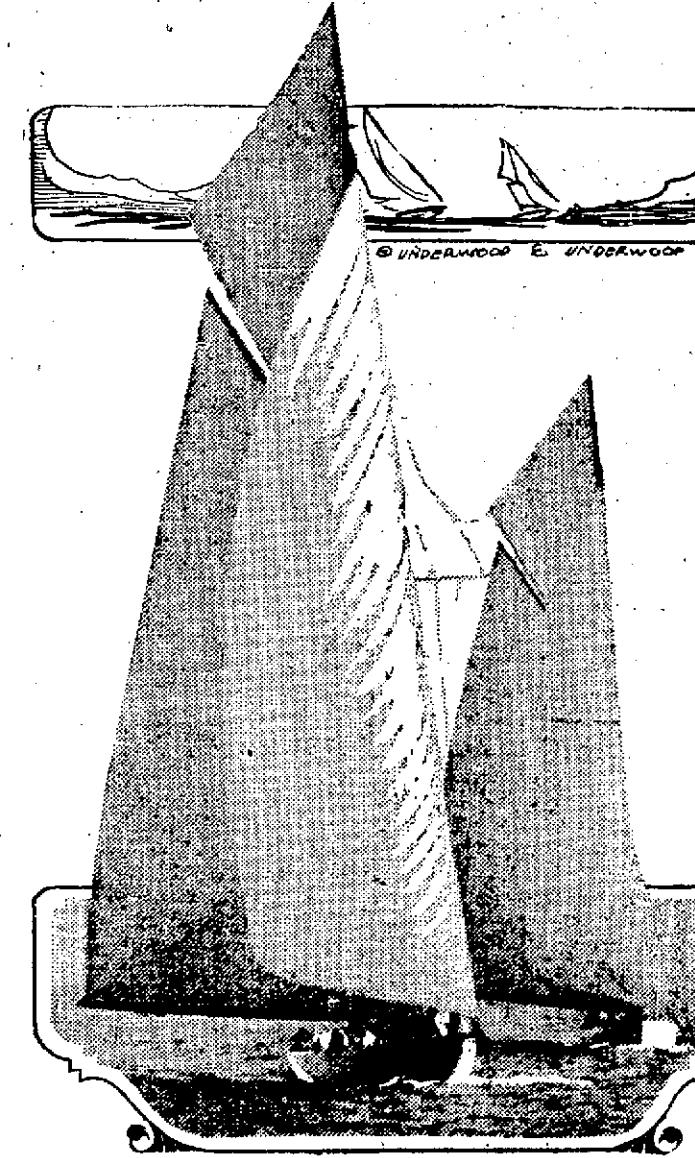

INTERNATIONAL REGATTA IS THAT IN NAME ONLY

Duluth, Minn., July 23.—The international annual boat regatta over the Duluth boat club course here today is international in name only, because of the war. Canadian points, usually contenders for the first places, were unable to enter teams because of the war. Nine main events will be staged today, and tomorrow, a gentleman's race, in which the contenders will have had no training, is one of the side issues. Although Canada, in which he is mostly interested, is not represented, Sir Thomas Lipton's great annual party has not been withdrawn. The Duluth club, coached by Coach Tom Erek, won the trophy last year.

GLENDALE PRINTING CO.

WANTS INFORMATION.

That the new income tax law laid down by the last democratic congress is still a genuine Chinese puzzle to the average business man and even some of our astute lawyers, is evidenced by the following comment in an eastern exchange.

A new income tax rule has just been issued by the Internal Revenue Commission relative to charging of real debts. The following is the revised rule:

Debts arising from unpaid wages, salaries, rents and items of similar taxable income due and payable on or after March 1, 1913, will not be allowed as general deductions under paragraph B of the income tax law unless the income which they represent have been included in a return of gross income for the year in which the deduction as a bad debt is sought to be made or in a previous year, and the debts themselves have been actually ascertained to be worthless and charged off.

"All debts representing amounts that become due and payable prior to March 1, 1913, and not ascertained to be worthless prior to that date, whether representing income or a return of capital, are held to be allowable deductions under paragraph B of the law in a return of income for the year in which they are actually ascertained to be worthless and are charged off."

Pretty near fair time now. Janesville first, then comes Evansville, and later follows Beloit. Lots doing in the amusement line for the rest of the summer in the pleasure-seeking line.

Wilson is on the job. He does not devote his time to junketing trips or chautauqua lectures, but sticks right at his desk when business of importance calls his attention.

The governor can sign or veto bills just as he always did and some of those appropriation measures will have to be signed materially if they pass his desk approved.

Think of it! A packing house employee was robbed of $4,400 which it is said he was saving to purchase a porterhouse steak with for his starving family.

The weather man is a cynical sort of an individual. He does not care how the pleasure-seekers are garbed—he sends down the rain just the same.

There is a certain mobilization of brains going on to plan for a system of national defense that speaks well for the patriotism of this country.

Another note has been sent to Germany. This time it will not be signed by Bryan and no cabinet explosions are expected to result.

If the people had to pay for their wars before they actually took part there would be a perpetual peace the world over.

Roosevelt calls Bryan a milk and water statesman. It has always been supposed that he was of the grape-juice stock.

Russia certainly has the constitution of standing a lot of punishment if the reports are true.

That we shall have to do something of the same kind ourselves sooner or later, is a disagreeable fact; but it is a fact. It is all very well for the editor of the Courier-Journal, in the safe sanctuary of Louisville, to snap his fingers at the Kaiser. If he lived a few hundred miles nearer the Atlantic, on a coast whose harbors alone are defended, his defiance would have more weight.

"It is exactly the prospect of this grim burden which makes it so urgently necessary that the German militarist party shall be smashed, once and for all. A peace without this would convert the world into an armed camp. Either everybody must be a soldier, or nobody. The Swiss defensive system is the best of all. Every citizen there is a soldier, and is not withdrawn from productive usefulness, as he is under the German system.

"But one thing is certain, we cannot bury our heads in the sand and expect that the world will refrain from appropriating the contents of our coat-tail pockets."

BAND CONCERTS.

Janesville is having its fill of band concerts this summer and they are being enjoyed by the people generally. With rival bands making strenuous bids for public favor, schedules which call for one concert each week from each band, there is plenty of music in the air. Rainy evenings, however, have delayed some of the scheduled concerts and this was the direct cause of the double head concert last evening. However the public enjoyed the sensation of having a band at both sides of the river and a goodly number listened to both concerts. It is unfortunate that such intense rivalry exists between the two organizations, but perhaps the public is the gainer in the end if the present musical contests are continued.

THE PLAYGROUND.

The city playgrounds are being enjoyed more and more by the younger generation. After their long months in school, the school grounds have now become their favorite places of amusement and under the direction of the instructors they are taught how to play and enjoy themselves. There are games and sports for all. The value of the system installed is becoming more and more recognized and the next question is, why not endorse that idea of the purchase of the island in the river for a public park and playground, with a boat landing, swimming facilities and other features that would be enjoyed by the general public?

Russia appears to be making a last stand and the German and Austrian forces insist that they give back and permit their victorious armies to march on to victory. If the ammunition Russia has waited for so long has arrived, perhaps the Czar's troops may be able to make an accounting—if not, they must retreat.

The "tax-eaters" continue to devour the taxes of the citizens of Wisconsin despite the words of warning issued at the last general election which elected Philipp governor, that they wished expenses reduced.

THE REAL THINGS.

The Wants-to-be-cynic had been playing cards with a partner addicted to point in the game. This ultra optimistic partner had capped the cynic's bid of three royal (therefore justified) by four hearts (not justified) and thereby had lost the hand, the rubber, and the game.

The cynic had taken it very calmly on the whole and we were congratulating him upon his self-control afterwards.

The Cynic's Lesson.

"Well," he admitted, "there was a time when I wouldn't have been so calm, but I think I've learned to put cards in their proper place now." "I've learned to put cards in their proper place now," that sentence leaped out at me and I sat revolving it in my mind while the conversation drifted on to other matters.

It's a pretty big lesson, isn't it? Of course, I don't mean merely putting cards, but putting things in general in their proper places.

A true sense of values is one of the biggest and rarest assets in life. To put things in their proper places is a lesson that neither wisdom nor experience alone can teach. It takes both the passing of the years and the ardent desire to understand the issues of life to enable us to sift and weigh and eliminate and appreciate toward a true standard of values.

Some People Live a Century Without Learning.

A man might live a century and still have an utterly false standard and you've got to get down to brass tacks and actually think for yourself to learn the things in their proper places and "thinking" someone has said "just what no one wants to do."

You've got to analyze your own desires. You long passionately to possess some pretty thing. You covet some power, you are eager for some pleasure, as a penny held close to the eye eclipses the sun, so this particular desire bulked out of all proportion and if you cannot fulfill it, temporarily it blots out the sunshine of life. You must learn to put it farther away and see it as small as it really is.

Things Are Only a Part of Life.

Things, material things, are only a small part of life, but some people never realize that and those who do glimpse that truth are continually losing sight of it.

Friendship, honor, self-knowledge, courage, wisdom, love, self-control, character building, aren't these after all the realities of life?

Whether you win the game of cards is a minor matter, but whether you play it honestly and without losing your self-control is a tremendously big matter.

Help us to learn to put all things in their proper places is a very big prayer in a little sentence.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, In Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are interested readers and would like your advice.

(1) Do you think two people twenty-one years old who have been keeping company for five years really know whether they care for each other and can tell if they will be happy together? If they wait for him to speak? G. A. G.

(2) Do you think it proper for a girl of nineteen to continue steady company with a young man of twenty-one whom she has gone with for two years and doesn't know who her son cares for him?

(3) Would it be proper for eight boys and girls between the ages of eighteen and twenty-three to go to a lake for a week's unchaperoned? If not, would it be better to have a lady chaperone or a married couple?

BILLIE AND BURKE. (1) When a boy and girl have gone together for five years they must be pretty congenial. I would advise that they never wait. At twenty-one, you are either young to know whether you would be happy married. Wait a year or two and if you are still in love you may be reasonably sure that you will be happy together.

(2) A girl should never encourage a boy to care for her when she does not love him. Let two or three boys come to see you. If at nineteen is too young to keep steady company.

(3) It would be extremely imprudent for boys and girls to go for a week's outing unchaperoned. It would be well to get the mother and father or one of the girls or boys to chaperone. The chaperon should always be a person whose reputation is good.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: About a year ago I met a young man on the street whom I used to know when I was a little girl and I spoke to him. Now, it seems that he has forgotten me. He met me on the street since and when I go to town I have to pass the office where he works. It seems I can't get away from him. The harder I try the more I think of him. Do you think I could renew the old friendship after so many years? Should I speak first or wait for him to speak? G. A. G.

(2) As long as you were old friends it will be right for you to speak to him again sometime when you pass each other. If he speaks in a puzzled way, say that you do not believe he remembers you and tell him who you are. You can do nothing more; further removal of friendship rests in his hands.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a white embroidered hat made over a sailor shape and trimmed with black embroidery. Will you please tell me if it would be all right to wear to church. And could it be worn with anything but a white dress?

(2) If it is a sower a present is necessary, otherwise it is not.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is vaseline good for the eyebrows?

(2) What is a good preparation for cleaning the teeth?

(3) What is a good remedy for warts?

(4) For lice? ANXIOUS.

(5) Vaseline is good for the eyebrows, but makes them look greasy if much is used.

"Thanks, Tim," he chuckled. "Let's talk business a minute. I had you hold up the Vedder court condemnation because I got a new idea last night. Those buildings are unsafe."

"Well, the building commissioners have to make a living," considered Tim.

"That's what I think," agreed Allison.

Tim Corman looked up at him steadily out of his puffy slits of eyes, for a moment, and considered.

"I get you," he said, and the business talk being concluded, Allison went forward.

The girls and Ted came back presently, and, with their arrival, Gail brought Rev. Smith Boyd into the crowd, whereupon they resolved themselves into some appearance of sociability, and Allison, for the amusement of the company, stylized started old Tim Corman into a line of personal reminiscences, so replete in unconscious humor and so frank in unconscious disclosures of callous knavery, that the company needed no other entertainment.

Out in the open, where the sun paled the electric lights of the car into sickly yellow, up into the air, peering into third-story tenements and down narrow alleys, adulterer, with countless flapping pieces of laundry work, then suddenly into the darkness of the tunnel again, then out, on the surface of country-fields, and dreary winter landscape, to the terminal. It was more cozy in the tunnel, and they returned there for lunch.

Suddenly there came a dull, muffled report, like the distant firing of a cannon; then an interval of silence, an infinitesimal one, in which the car ran smoothly on, and, half rising, they looked at each other in startled questioning. Then, all at once, came a stupendous roar, as if the world had split asunder, a jolting and jerking, a headlong stoppage, a clattering, and snapping and crashing and grinding, deafening in its volume, and with it all, darkness; blackness, so intense that it seemed almost palpable to the touch!

There was a single shriek, and a nervous laugh verging on hysteria. The shriek was from Arly, and the laugh from Lucile. There was a cry from the forward end of the car, as of someone in pain. A man's yell of pain; Gregory the general manager. A strong hand clutched Gail's in the darkness, firm, reassuring. The rector.

"Don't move!" It was the voice of Allison, crisp, harsh, commanding.

"Anybody hurt?" Tim Corman, the voice of age, but otherwise steady.

"It's me," called Tom, the motorman. "Head cut a little, arm bruised. Nothing bad."

"Gail?" Allison again.

"Yes." Clear voiced, with the courage which has no sex.

"Mrs. Teasdale?" Mrs. Fosland? Ted? Doctor Boyd?" and so through the list. Everybody safe.

"It is an accidental blast," said the voice of Allison. He had figured that a concise statement of just what had happened might expedite organization. "We are below the Farmount ridge, over a hundred feet deep, and the tube has caved in on us. There must be no waste of exertion. Don't move until I find what electrical dangers there are."

A match flared up, and showed the pale face of the engineer bending over.

"No matches," ordered Allison. "We may need the oxygen."

He and the engineer made their way back into the parlor compartment. They took up the door of the motor well in the floor, and in a few minutes they replaced it. From the sounds they seemed remarkably clumsy.

"That much is lucky," commented Allison. "The next thing is to dig."

"In front or behind?" wondered the engineer.

"In front," decided Allison. "The explosion came from that direction, and has probably shaken down more of the soil there than behind, but it's solid clay in the rear, and further out. Gail felt the rector's hand suddenly leave her own. It had been wonderfully comforting there in the dark, so firm and warm and steady. He had not talked much to her, just a few reassuring words, in that low, melodic voice, which thrilled her as did occasionally the touch of Allison's hand, as did the eyes of Dick Rodley. But she had received more strength from the voice of Allison. He was big, Allison, a power, a force, a spirit of command. She began, for the first time, to comprehend his magnitude.

"What have we to dig with?" The voice of Rev. Smith Boyd, and there was a note of eagerness in it.

"The benches up in front here," yelled McCarthy, and there was a ripping sound as he tore the seat from one of them.

"Pardon me." It was the voice of the rector, up in front.

"The balance of you sit down, and keep rested," ordered Allison; now also up in front. McCarthy, Boyd and I go first."

The long struggle began. The girls grouped together in the back of the car, moving but very little, for there was much broken glass about. Up in front the three men could be heard making an opening into the debris through the forward windows. They talked a great deal, at first, strong, capable voices. They were interfering with each other, then helping, combining their strength to move heavy stones and the like, then they were silent, working independently, or in effective unison.

Tim Corman was the possessor of a phosphorescent-faced watch, with 22

Gregory Was the First to Give Out.

Jewels on the inside and a ruby on the winding stem, and he constituted himself timekeeper.

"Thirty minutes," he called out. "It's our shift."

The men crawled in from outside, but they stayed in the front compartment. The air was growing a trifle close, and they breathed heavily.

"Good-by, girl," called the gay funeral voice of Ted Teasdale. "Husband is going to work."

Another interminable wait, while the air grew more stifling. There was no further levity after Lincoln and the motorman, and McCarthy had come back; for the condition was becoming serious. Some air must undoubtedly be finding its way to the car through the loose debris, but the carbonic acid gas exhaled from a dozen pairs of lungs was beginning to pocket, and the opening ahead, though steadily pushing forward, displayed no signs of lessening solidity.

They established shorter shifts now, a quarter of an hour. The men came silently in and out, and as silently worked, and as silently rested, while the girls carried that heavy burden of women's hardest labor, waiting.

Gregory was the first to give out, then the injured motorman. When their turns came, they had not the strength nor the air in their lungs. Strong McCarthy was the next to join them.

The shifts had reduced to two, two men each, by now; Ted and old Tim, and Allison and the rector; and these latter two worked double time. Their lips and their tongues were parched and cracking, and in their periods of rest they sat motionlessly facing each other, with a wheeze in the drawing of their breath. Their stertorous breathing could be heard from the forward end of their little tunnel clear back into the car, where the three girls were battling to preserve their senses against the poisonous gases which were now all that they had to breathe. Acting on the rector's advice, they had stood up in the car to escape the gradually rising level of the carbonic gas, stood, as the time progressed, with their mouths agape and their breasts heaving and sharp pains in their lungs at every breath. Arly dropped, silently crumpling to the floor; then, a few minutes later, Lucile, and, panic-stricken by the thought that they had gone under, Gail felt her own senses reeling, and Arly dropped, silently crumpling to the floor; then, a few minutes later, Lucile, and, panic-stricken by the thought that they had gone under,

Gail felt her own senses reeling, and Arly dropped, silently crumpling to the floor; then, a few minutes later, Lucile, and, panic-stricken by the thought that they had gone under,

"Gail, I see he charges according to the kind of house he comes to!" Gail responded, "I bet he broke my arm!"

"I must go in and call a doctor!" Gail responded, "I almost forgot myself and went the wrong way!"

"Excuse me! I am with a little accident and I have you call a doctor to see me here madam!"

Dinner Stories

A Virginia farmer was driving a refractory cow down the road one morning. The cow and the driver came to a cross road. The man wanted the cow to go straight ahead, but the cow picked out the cross road. A negro was coming along the cross road.

"Hold her off! Hold her off!" yelled the driver.

The negro jumped about the road and waved his arms. The cow proceeded calmly on her way.

"Hold her off! Hold her off, nigger," yelled the driver.

"I'm a trying ter," replied the negro.

"Speak to her! Speak to her and she'll stop!"

"Good mawnin', cow—good mawnin'" said the negro politely.

"Let's go fishing," said the Baby Baboon to Jimmy one afternoon as they came from the woods. "Very well," said Jimmy, as he ran off to his house for his fishing tackle, while the Baby went after him. Soon they were seated on the bank of the big river fishing.

Pretty soon the Baby Baboon got up and up came a fish on the end of his line:

Jimmy's mouth dropped.

They kept on fishing and then the Baby Baboon got another bite and up came Mister Fish number two.

"I don't like this fishing," said Jimmy. "What's the matter?" asked his companion. "I don't know," said Jimmy. "I guess the worm on my line is tired." And then they went home, but the Baby Baboon could not help laughing at what Jimmy had said.

ARE YOU PULLING YOUR HARDEST?

Fifteen years ago two young men opened a shoe store in Chicago with a capital of $4,000. Before they opened their doors, they contracted for half that amount in newspaper advertising.

From the beginning, they put back into newspaper advertising every cent they could afford, increasing their investment in full proportion to their business growth. Until now, young O'Connor and Goldberg have five shops in Chicago's loop, and their yearly receipts have round-ed the $1,000,000 mark.

They realized at the beginning that their survival and progress in business demanded their UNRELAXING BEST EFFORT, and they wisely directed that effort into ADVERTISING CHANNELS.

As a result, this year is the best in their history. Is this YOUR best year?

If it isn't, you need US.

Let us help you pull the oar.

Let us help you discover and correct the error or mis-direction of effort that is holding you back.

Let us help you direct your effort into the channels that assure you the best results.

PEACE DOVE REIGNS AND RIVALS PLAYED AT DIFFERENT SITES

Moose Play in Park and Bower City Organization at Corn Exchange
—No Clash Featured.

Ambitious decision on the parts of leaders of the Moose band and those of the Bower City organization last evening eliminated an expected series of chords and discords and all with harmonious melodies on the two sides of the river. Both bands had scheduled concerts at the Court House park and until well along in the afternoon neither organization was disposed to concede to the demands of the other.

Due to the fact however, that the Moose bandmen had announced their intention of giving a concert at Thursday evening and to the fact that the Bower City men did not originally arrange theirs until the noon hour, wiser heads in the latter body prevailed with the result that the Moose gave their selections at the park and the Bower City band at Corn Exchange.

Expectation of a tussle for possession of stand space in the park brought out an extra large audience who, although they enjoyed the music, were more or less disappointed because of the appearance of but one of the rival bands.

Both concerts were exceptionally well rendered. Aside from a few minor unexpected actions of rowdyism in the park, the only mishap to mar the evening was the accident which befell Lester Carr, a Moose bandman. Carr was suddenly taken sick while on the platform early in the evening and fell backwards to the ground, striking on his head. The fall rendered him unconscious for about half an hour but following this he was able to return to his place and play throughout the concert.

PRINCE WOULD REVIVE DEVON PACK HORSES FOR ENGLISH ARMY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

London, July 23.—The Prince of Wales, who owns a fine stock farm in Devonshire, is to make an attempt to revive the Devon pack horses for use in the British army. The breed, formerly the finest of its kind in western Europe, is very sturdy and strong, but, after some years has been almost extinct. Only about a hundred pure and half-bred specimens of the breed remain in England.

Dr. J. W. Keithley of Beloit accompanied by his two boys, were Overbrook visitors on Thursday morning. The doctor returned home but the boys will spend some time at the home of their uncle where they will rest.

The case arising out of the collision of an automobile and a horse and buggy which occurred early on Sunday morning, and which bid fair to doors at and after 8:30 this evening. A good program is in readiness. Come one, come all.

The Appleton Post has a singular idea of the girls of the city, judging from this remark, in the paper this week: "The cucumber crop at Janesville is reported large. The boarding school girls' mouths begin to water."

Boston, July 23.—Hugh Donahue completed at Mystic Park last night the task of walking 4,100 miles, in 1,100 consecutive hours. He was in good condition at the close.

The Mutuals played with the Beloit club yesterday and beat them 29 to 7. The former will hardly fare so well at Rockford, where, we understand, they play today.

The Bower City Division, Sons of Temperance, No. 51, will have open doors at and after 8:30 this evening. A good program is in readiness. Come one, come all.

The Appleton Post has a singular idea of the girls of the city, judging from this remark, in the paper this week: "The cucumber crop at Janesville is reported large. The boarding school girls' mouths begin to water."

Boston, July 23.—Hugh Donahue completed at Mystic Park last night the task of walking 4,100 miles, in 1,100 consecutive hours. He was in good condition at the close.

The Mutuals played with the Beloit club yesterday and beat them 29 to 7. The former will hardly fare so well at Rockford, where, we understand, they play today.

Shoe Firm's Receipts Reach $1,000,000 This Year

Young O'Connor and Goldberg Started Fifteen Years Ago With $4,000, and Invested Half of Capital in Newspaper Advertising Before Opening Doors.

ADVERTISING ACTIVITY BRINGS SUCCESS FROM START.

(By Andrew L. Demling.) It seems to me that a peep into one of our stores today would furnish all the testimony anyone could need to show surely, how extensively and how fast a newspaper advertisement will sell shoes, said John O'Connor, as we shifted position to accommodate the line of women waiting for chaises and attention, in one of his five boot-shoe and shoe stores that dot Chicago's loop district.

"But this is the result of one day's advertising," Mr. O'Connor, we replied. "I want to know the result of all your newspaper advertising." I want to know what your first ad did, and the results of your latest one before us."

"Well," he returned, "I can tell you about the beginning, all right, but our advertising story is even yet in its early stages, for it is growing every year, and our business, and both Mr. Goldberg and I agree that it will always continue to do so; Contracts Half Capital for Advertising Before Opening."

Having run Mr. O'Connor to earth in one of his stores which did not house his office, it was a question of taking our interview standing, and of fitting our none too wrinkle-like proportions into the least possible space. So seeking a temporary position on the ladder-like iron staircase which leads to the storage balcony, he continued:

"After we made the great plunge, and opened our store, Mr. Goldberg and I worked together for five years, he as a window trimmer, and as manager of a Chicago shoe house."

"We kept our ears and eyes open and the out-going sides of our pockets shut, till finally we decided we had enough experience and capital to try a venture of our own. After our lease guarantee was provided for our capital was exactly $4,000. But—"Before we had opened our doors, we advertised for half that amount or $2,000 in newspaper advertising. That was the lesson our experience had taught us. From the start, we turned back every cent we could spare into newspaper advertising, and the result was that we had no stragglers, even in our first year. We started with no employees, sold shoes all day and did our cleaning in the evening, and in less than three months, we had to have three salesmen. Builds $1,000,000 Yearly Business in 15 Years.

"How long ago was that, Mr. O'Connor?"

"That was in 1900, fifteen years ago."

"And your business has continued growing at the rate the first year promised?"

"This year our receipts round out the $1,000,000 mark, and we are outstripping our five stores."

Credits Newspaper Advertising Exclusively.

"And what advertising mediums have brought about this growth?"

"We have never used but one—the newspapers."

"For, while we have worked harder for ourselves than we would have believed humanly possible during our years of clerkship, and while we have made good on every advertised promise we have ever made, have never made a promise until it was an actuality. And on our shelves still, with all our hard work, all our sincerity and conscientious principles, our growth beyond the confines of Chicago prosperity would have been absolutely impossible without the newspapers."

"Naturally, we brought a certain following with us at the start. Naturally, this following would have grown to a certain extent from word of mouth advertising.

"But it was because we started with a true appreciation of the value of newspaper advertising, and because we directed our efforts from the very beginning in accordance with that knowledge, that we have been rewarded this measure of success."

Now Re-Invest 3% Yearly in Advertising.

"How do you apportion your investment now, Mr. O'Connor?"

"We re-invest about 3% of our yearly receipts in advertising now," he replied.

"We advertise at least six times a week. On Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, our ads appeal to the women, but on Thursday and Friday we go after the Saturday man shopper. Not that the women don't shop on Saturday, they shop every day. But Saturday is practically the only day in the week when men can take the time to buy shoes."

Receipts Increase $40,000 in Past Five Months.

"Has the past year offered any check to the rate of your business growth, Mr. O'Connor?" we asked.

"Very much, to the contrary," he replied. "During the past 21 weeks, our business increase over last year has been $40,000—an average of nearly $2,000 a month."

"Then, by the same token, you have put no check on your advertising."

"I should say not. We're in the business to grow, so how could we check our advertising effort? And of course, how could we stint it in a scaled poor year?"

Last Saturday was the biggest day in our business history, and this year is going to be our best year.

Two things are bringing this about: in the first place, the return of the short skirt has made women buy more shoes and better, hand-made shoes. In the second place, the fact that we have been able to advertise more constantly this year than ever before, because of the corresponding growth of our business and advertising investment, has brought more women here to buy those shoes.

"Short skirts have been in vogue before, but we were smaller then, we couldn't advertise as much as we do now. So our volume of business couldn't be as great as this year."

"Put proportionately, the history of each of our years has been the same. It has always been imply a question of capacity for us. As we expanded, we advertised more, and when we advertised more, we have to expand again."

"And that's the endless chain aspect of business—advertise and expand—the two halves that make the whole of progress. Attest the Value of Truthful Advertising

"But while we are on the subject of advertising, let me add my word as to the value of absolute truth in advertising. It is within the power of every merchant to make his name stand out only for what is attractive in the commodity he sells, but also for absolute fairness and reliability in his manner of selling it."

"That is what newspaper advertising will accomplish for the man who uses it properly, and sufficiently. It is the way we interpreted the value of newspaper advertising fifteen years ago, and we soon saw we were on the right track."

"And during all these fifteen years of diplomacy in handling crowds of women like this, who must all be waited on right away or they'll miss a train or something, you have never lost any of the gentility out of your smile!"

It became a laugh as he answered: "In this business smiles are next in importance to advertising and stock. A glamor salesman inspires even corn on your foot into action and makes shoe buying an ordeal. So whenever we see a smile dimming up, we look its owner in the ribs and whisper, 'Smile!'"

And we found ourselves doing it, as we made our way out into the bitter July air.

PRODUCTION OF CLEAN MILK

Do Not Allow Cows to Wade and Live in Filth—Sunlight is Most Excellent Sterilizer.

There is no one thing in particular to be observed in the production of clean milk. Anything that tends to cleanliness is desired. Keep the cows clean, and do not compel or allow them to wade and live in filth. This means clean yards and clean, well-bedded stalls. Everything short of this is positively repulsive and should not be tolerated any longer in a civilized community.

Dorine gave him her usual bright smile and nod, and then her eyes fell on his coat lapel, which was guiltless of adornment. A slight flush burned her cheeks and after that she gave him only cursory glances, and when he asked her to walk with him as he passed her in the corridor she declined almost frigidly.

For three days he did not have conversation with her. He saw across the dining room with her father, mother and brother, and he received each time a cool little nod from Dorine. It was Saturday night at the weekly dance that he determined to talk with her.

He waited for her at the big double door leading into the ballroom. He had fully decided to force her to listen to him. As she came downstairs, lovely in a white dancing dress, met her face to face.

"This has been our dance all summer, Dorine. Have it with me now." He put his arm about her and they stepped off together in the hesitation waltz they had learned to dance so well as partners.

When the dance was over he led her out through the French windows that opened onto a secluded veranda. "Sit down," Joe said, drawing up a chair. Himself, he sat on the railing facing her.

"Now," he began, "what is the matter? Why have you deliberately avoided me for days?" He paused. "I know—it was because you thought I was careless about your flower—that I had forgotten it."

"You were—you did," said Dorine with asperity. "And I know very well why it was—"

"Dorine—" began Joe, but she interrupted him.

"Wait—let me tell you! Let me show you that I realize all about it before you tell me your excuse." She laid emphasis on the last word.

"George—my brother—told me when he saw me pinning it on you that you would never be seen wearing a yellow flower—that it was the emblem of the suffragist! So you let some one ridicule you out of it. I did not pin it on you because of my views on this woman question—though they are very strongly in favor of it—but because I was beginning to—well, to like you, and I always give father and George a buttonhole bouquet when they leave in the morning. I—I was very foolish to do it," she said.

"Dorine Fable, listen to me," the young man said, earnestly. "This sounds so funny I can hardly tell you, though I assure you it isn't funny to me. The morning you gave me that flower I was called out to the estate of Mr. Phillips to see what was the matter with the foot of a very fine goat. While I was looking at its foot the animal chewed my flower off and the stable man who was with us roared with laughter. If you doubt this, I will show you the withered stem still pinned to the under side of my coat lapel. I had not put it in water on my desk, but was still wearing it. Now, do you see how badly you have treated me? Do you, Dorine?"

"And—and it wasn't because it was yellow, then?" she asked.

"Search me! Maybe the goat was an antisuffragist, but I'm not responsible for his views. Seriously, Dorine, aren't you sorry?"

Dorine nodded.

And then Doctor Hanscom whispered three little words in Dorine's ear.

There is a chemical difference between large and small globules, the former containing softer, lighter fats; the character of the fat may also determine the size of the globule. Probably much of the heredity for production lies in the size and character of the globules. We are still in the stage of investigating these things without being able to make positive statements, but the young dairymen will come to more positive knowledge by and by.

Shape of Silo.
The tall, slender type of silo has rapidly come into favor and has replaced the wider type, formerly constructed. There is a very good reason for this, since a larger amount of silage can be stored in a given space in this new type on account of the greater compression of the lower layers. Furthermore, there is little or no danger of spoiling in the case of a silo of small diameter, because a good layer of it can be fed off each day.

During the last years of our civil war the quartermaster-general's report shows that the consumption of horses and mules, on the northern side alone, amounted to 500 a day.

The Way of Salvation

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
Assistant Superintendent of Men, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—Look unto me and be saved all the ends of the earth, for I am God and there is none else.—Isa. 64:22.

The late Rev. Chas. H. Spurgeon, one of the greatest preachers of England, said that for a number of weeks prior to his conversion he was under great conviction of sin. He attended many services, seeking relief, but it so happened that none of the preaching he heard was directed to unsaved persons and the services did him little good. Finally, he happened to enter a Primitive Methodist chapel where a gray-haired servant to preach, choosing for his text the passage we have before us. Mr. Spurgeon says that this was the time and this the text from which he dated his conversion. Some ten years afterwards he had the pleasure of standing in this Methodist chapel and preaching from the same text, the words of which tell us two things concerning God's way of salvation.

A Simple Way.

I. The simplicity of the way—"Look unto me and be saved." The way of salvation has been made so simple that the wayfaring man though a fool need not err therein. Could anything be simpler than just to look away from one object to another? From the time when man first was lost from God it has been a simple thing to be saved. Think of God's treatment of Adam after the fall. He did not demand that Adam do some great thing to save himself, but, coming down, he made for the man a coat in which he might appear before him. It did not require much reasoning power to wear a coat already provided. When the prodigal son returned to the father, the father ordered the best robe to be brought and placed upon him, and soon the boy was clothed and at to go into the father's house again. It required no great understanding to allow the robe to be placed upon him. The word is that "to as many as received him (Jesus), to them gave he power to become the sons of God." Think of Noah being invited into the ark. It was not a difficult thing for him to step across the threshold and be saved, but it was that step that settled his destiny. Today the Lord says "I am the door, by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved." How easy a matter to cross the threshold and be safe!

Difficulties to Be Overcome.

II. The difficulty of the way—"Look at me." Put the emphasis on the word "me." The great difficulty in being saved is to really look away from everything else to him alone. The people to whom Isaiah was writing were looking to their idols, and he was attempting to draw their trust away from them to God, in whom alone salvation could be found. The same trouble exists today because of idols in the land. There are two great idols in America today to which many of the people are looking for salvation. One of them might be termed the good man's idol and one the bad man's idol. The one the good man trusts in is sincerity, and it has many devotees. It says if a man follows his conscience and does what he thinks he ought to do that he will be saved of a certainty. The apostle Paul worshiped the same idol, because he says, "I verily thought within myself that I ought to do many things contrary to the way." What Paul thought he ought to do he attempted to do. He was a sincere man, willing to go to any expense to do what he thought he should do.

Reformation Inadequate.

The other great idol, the bad man's, might be called reformation. This says that the man is to turn over a new leaf and begin again, to put away the things which are known to be wrong, to quit this or that evil thing and to change his way of living generally. It would be a good thing if some men would change their way of life, but merely changing the outside would never secure salvation from God. We do what we do because we are what we are. This is why Nicodemus must be turned from his religious ceremonies, and Nathaniel from his prayers, although all these are good things in their place. Some years ago the U. S. S. Oregon went aground on the coast of China near the port of Shanghai and comparatively near Canton. It was discovered that a dry dock would be necessary to make the needed repairs, and neither of these ports had such. It became essential for the salvation of the vessel that she be taken to Nagasaki, in Japan. She could be cleaned and coated, and even victualled in the nearer ports, but all would be valueless unless the boat could be placed in a dry dock. The damage must be repaired if the ship was to be saved.

Substances Carried to the Ocean. A cubic mile of river water weighs approximately 4,205,650,000 tons and carries in solution, on the average about 420,000 tons of foreign matter. In all, about 2,735,000,000 tons of solid substances are thus carried annually to the ocean.

SOLOMON DEDICATES THE TEMPLE

(THE STORY)

Till underneath the fair Jerusalem
The holy city lifted high her towers,

And higher yet the glorious temple

Her peer far off appearing like a

Of alabaster, topped with golden

Spikes. —Milton.

The palace of God is finished. The Last touch of the artisan is given. Every article of furniture in its position.

It rises like a mountain of snow crest-

Ed with fire. This costliest, holiest most significant fane on earth is to have a dedication in every respect worthy of it. * * Out of the two-thousand-year-old palace of the great King comes the triumphal procession.

The royal bodyguard, five hundred strong is in the van. Each giant trooper carries his colossal golden tauroget. The white-robed choristers follow. The priests bear aloft the nations palladiums, the sacred ark. Solomon in all his glory follows. Hear you the antiphon and organ? The heralded stratus of the twenty-fourth Psalm?

(Chorus Processional.)

"Lift up, ye gates, your heads; and raise yourselves, ye ancient doors.

That the King of glory may come in."

(Chorus Hidden.)

(Chorus Processional.)

"Jehovah hosts."

"Hail is the King of glory!"

The temple is now covered. Temples fly open! The last barrier, the veil to the holy of holies, is drawn aside. * * The Lord enters into his rest—like the ark of his strength.

As that golden depository, shrinking at once the divine presence, divine mercy, divine law is set down upon the fragment of bare, natural, everlasting life. The choir of ten thousand voices, with mighty,雄伟的， voices, an accompaniment, burst forth in a sublime anthem of praise. The King, in full regalia, standing on his dais of burnished brass, spreads his hands in the prayer of dedication, in thought, diction, and emotion—in every respect worthy of the sublimity of the occasion. * * Jehovah accepts his people. His ineffable grace is shown to the congregation, the kingy host to Jehovah, who becomes thus God's abiding guest. * * Solo mon's dedicatory prayer is by far the finest example of its kind elevated.

It is a faultless model. It is elevated, comprehensive, profound, reverent. It is the offering up of the sincere, dedicated heart, but of many. It is a confession of the people's faith: a setting forth in clear and highly appropriate terms, of the general truth universally accepted.

It has been well said there is not a prayer to be compared to this in all pre-Christian antiquity. Had we nothing but this, it would alone suffice to attest

the depth of the purity, and the truth of the Jewish knowledge of God and salvation, even against the religious ideas of all other peoples.

* * In the seven and a half years in which the temple was building, 160,000 workmen were employed upon it. Tradition says that the parts were measured that when brought to the site they were fitted together so that neither hammer nor nail was seen.

Giving rise to the poet's line:

"Like a tall palm the noiseless structure grew."

Its isolated position greatly enhanced its appearance. The platform on which it stood was partly artificial and contained twelve acres. The building faced the east, as if to greet the dawn. The material was marble and fragrant and unyielding wood. The estimated cost was seven million dollars. Tradition says that when brought to the site they were fitted together so that neither hammer nor nail was seen.

CHRIST IN ME.

That weird invention which sends words through vast spaces without use of wire or cable ought to suggest the possibility of a spiritual communication. Should it any longer be thought that it is possible that man should talk with God or God with man? The Bi-bible furnishes the code. Faith is the dynamo. The communication is perfectly sure that your money is safe, we strongly recommend certificates of deposit in this strong bank. They are payable on demand and earn 3% interest if left six months.

TWO APPROPRIATION BILLS TO GOVERNOR

Senate Concurs In Appropriations for Banking Department and Historical Society.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Madison, Wis., July 23.—Appropriation bills allowing $103,000 for the maintenance of the state banking department for the next two years, and $10,000 for the State Historical Society were concurred in by the senate last night and now go to the governor. The senate also passed a bill giving Stout institute at Menomonie, a biennial grant of $85,000, and the Everett bill providing for the payment by the state of the appropriations of $2,500 for state fair improvements, made two years ago in annual installments. Senator Everett explained that $55,000 is to be made available when Milwaukee county deeds the land adjacent to the fair grounds to the state, and $50,000 is to be paid in four annual installments. He said the Milwaukee county board is ready and willing to meet these conditions and that the governor is in accord with the plan. On this understanding the senate passed the bill. Senator Everett said the county board probably will see that the first appropriation is available within sixty days. The vote was 21 to 2, the latter being Senators Bennett and Staudenmayer.

The administration's consolidation bills were put through by the senate. The Hanson bill creating a state department of engineering was passed, 17 to 5, and concurrence was given the committee bill reorganizing the state printing board, 16 to 5. The state bill also concurred in the Albers bill allowing the Wisconsin Valley Improvement company to acquire and construct a system of reservoirs on the Wisconsin river.

Senator Whitman's bill repealing the state fair appropriations, which the senate as above noted provided for paying in annual installments, was killed without a debate.

Several other bills of more or less importance went over until next week. A motion by Senator Burke to reconsider the vote by which the Bischler bill abolishing the office of state claim agent was killed, will be acted upon next Wednesday.

Delights In Sorrow, Even His Own. "I've got a great joke on myself!" grinned J. Fuller Gloom, whose mean disposition leads him to delight in sorrow, even when it is his own. FAUDULENT METHODS USED BY SCHOOL BOOK SALESMEN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Monroe, Wis., July 23.—Agents have been canvassing this vicinity, visiting the teachers and school boards of the various districts, trying to sell school books to them, recommended, and that in order to keep up their standing teachers should purchase them. As a result, County Superintendent John N. Burns has issued the following notice:

"School Boards: Information has come to me that agents selling reference works of various kind, have represented to school boards that they have recommended the books and advised them to purchase the same for the school libraries. For the benefit of the school districts of Green county and to the boards visited by such agents, I will state that I have recommended no books of this kind and have refused to give recommendations to the agents selling them." HUBB OF WAR PREPARATION NOW HEARD OVER ALL OF SPAIN

Some crack infantrymen of the Thirteenth Spanish regiment and queen presenting Academy of Infantry with standard she made herself.

Now Spain is busy with many sorts of plans for war. Many people think she is preparing to join with the side that will profit her the most toward the close of hostilities; some say she has an eye on Portugal and Gibraltar. Spanish leaders refute insinuations of selfish designs and declare that the only object is preparedness, just the same sort of preparedness that is being urged in the United States. They say Spain merely wants to be ready for eventualities.

But certain it is that drilling goes on everywhere and patriotic demonstrations are the order of the day.

At the annual ceremonies of the Academy of Infantry, just held at Toledo, Queen Victoria presented the academy with a new standard, the design of which she had worked herself, and at the same time delivered a patriotic address.

MONTENEGRINS AGAIN CAPTURE SCUTARI; DOMINATES ALBANIA

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Washington, D. C., July 23.—After weeks of silence, the news comes that the persistent little army of Montenegro has taken to itself Scutari, the principal city and fortress of Albania, now held before the victorious Montenegrins in the third Balkan war, and from which the soldiers of the Montenegrin kingdom were compelled to retreat by action of Austria-Hungary.

The Montenegrins have had considerable practice in attacking Scutari through their 300 years of intermittent struggle with the Turks, and all of the problems involved in an advance by the side of the Lake of Scutari to the city between the mountains are doubtless thoroughly known to the present military leaders of the tiny state. A description of this city, a strategic point for the domination of northern Albania, is given in the most recent statement of the New York Geographic Society, issued in its series of war geography studies. The statement reads:

"Scutari has military value as commanding northern Albania, and as holding a key position on the northern head of the plain that stretches from the town into the country's interior. It is the most important city in the newly created Albanian nation, having a population of more than 32,000 and some transit and export trade. It has notable commercial and neighboring ports which enjoy the advantages of good railway connections.

Scutari suffers is the loss of all port facilities upon its convenient seacoast.

"Situated beyond the flat, fever-laden lowlands and just beyond the coastal hills, Scutari is effectively closed away from the world, even for Albania. It is built upon the south-east shore of Lake Scutari, near the confluence of the Drin and Boyana rivers. The Adriatic is only more than fourteen miles to the west. The greater part of the Lake Scutari since the settlements brought about by the first Balkan war, is contained within the Montenegrin borders. The city of Scutari lies just across the Montenegrin border, but a short, evening-hour's walk away. The lake is surpassingly beautiful; its waters are brilliantly clear, the growths upon its banks luxuriant, while the heavily shouldered mountains, which give it a setting like a gem in a ring, greatly increase the effect of the picture. There are numerous, heavily populated breeding grounds by its shores for aquatic fowl, and the lake itself is well stocked with fish."

"The country all around the city is wild—as is most of the area of Albania—and very sparsely settled. The hardy Albanians builds him a home, a hut, near his forest on the spur of some hill, near his village, to permit him to send his women folk for supplies but seldom near enough to others to aid in forming a village. Very few paths that can satisfactorily be classed as roads run through this country. The easiest way to progress from one place to another is along the plain, which extends from across the Montenegrin frontier south to Scutari. It is largely owing to the wild, uncultured mountain and ravine ways of Albania that the Turks were never able completely to subdue this people, but were forced to govern them by a diplomatic distribution of favor.

The original and picturesque in appearance, there is, however, little to suggest well-being or wealth in the Albanian metropolis. Its bazaars and mosques are interesting, and its old Venetian citadel perched upon its crag is a romantic object. The citadel and other fortifications of the town are long out of date and would offer little resistance to modern artillery. Millions crowd in upon the town, and there is danger of floods during heavy rains on frozen thaws. It imports textiles, provisions, metal products and arms. Arms and cotton stuffs are manufactured. Arms are an important article of commerce in Albania; for while the Albanian has accustomed himself to going without almost everything, he will not go without a rifle.

AGED RESIDENT OF JOHNSTOWN IS DEAD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Johnstown, Wis., July 23.—Mrs. Margaret Ward, aged 91 years, succumbed at noon today after an extended illness.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Popolar Grove, Ill., July 23.—Fire of suspicious origin early today destroyed the electric light plant here, two barns and partially wrecked a nearby shop. The total loss is estimated at $1,000. The light plant and one of the barns is owned by Warren M. Webster of Beloit. A riding horse, valued at $500, was killed in the fire. It is probable that an investigation will be made as there have been several small fires of doubtful origin here within a short time.

Today's blaze was discovered shortly after three o'clock this morning and as the village has no fire department the flames was by means of a bucket brigade which proved of small effect.

Mark Cavaney suffered a broken jaw, injured one eye and had his face badly lacerated in an explosion of the acetylene gas plant at the home of his sister, Mrs. Chas. Dyke Calkins, who was visiting at his sister's home when suddenly the lights went out. He took a kerosene lamp and started to the basement to investigate when the explosion occurred.

Priest at St. Peter's Church Has Been Assigned to Charge at McHenry, Illinois.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Beloit, Wis., July 23.—Father M. J. McEvoy of St. Peter's church, has been assigned to St. Patrick's church at McHenry, Ill., after serving the local parish for over four years. He came to Beloit five years ago, when he was assistant at St. James church. He has been popular during his term in Beloit and has been prominent in musical circles. Father J. F. Donahue of Dixon, Ill., will succeed Father McEvoy as pastor of the local church. The change has been announced by Bishop P. J. Muldoon of Rockford.

MAY REVOKE CHARTER OF FRATERNAL ORDER

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Unfair Treatment of Policy-Holders Charged Against Independent Order of Foresters.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., July 23.—Proceedings have been started to the revocation of the Wisconsin charter of the Independent Order of Foresters, a fraternal benefit society. Insurance Commissioner Cleary has set Aug. 19 at 10 a.m. for the hearing on the application, which was filed by Frank W. Hall, Madison, as attorney for John W. Groves, former mayor of Madison, a member of the order. Another member interested in the revocation action is Nevel H. Dodge of Madison, a former state high chief ranger of the order.

The general charge is alleged unfair treatment of policy holders in violation of the obligation of contract and for alleged failure to file the annual statement required by law.

The insurance department as the law provides. Similar proceedings have been begun in other states.

The Wisconsin action is made possible by a law just enacted under which the commissioner of insurance may act in behalf of members of a fraternal society to establish the rights of such members.

Before such a suit is brought the society is given opportunity for a hearing before the governor, attorney general and commissioner of insurance.

The state office is in this city, with J. C. Proctor as state secretary.

FOREIGNERS FORBIDDEN TO PRACTICE MEDICINE IF GERMAN LAW PASSES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Berlin, July 23.—Foreigners will be forbidden to practice medicine in Berlin if the German Federation of Physicians Associations has its way. Its Federal Council, in a petition to the government, has just requested the legislature of such a prohibition, grounding its position on the allegation that a great number of foreign physicians are now practicing in Berlin "in a quackish manner," notwithstanding the fact that these physicians have had to comply with the same rules applicable to domestic physicians before being admitted to practice. The federation desires not only to forbid practicing physicians now here, but to make impossible also the admission of foreign physicians after the war.

The German physician association is visiting Berlin to demand that the law be passed at once.
